

"Growing better every day," is the report from the President. He will be reported out of all danger this week.

For genuine stupidity and downright blundering, the Republicans of the New York Legislature are entitled to the banner.

The Republicans in the New York Legislature who are voting for Cookling and the deadlock are called Democrats by brevet. Just at this time the title is a little more appropriate than "stewarts."

The epidemic of lockjaw which has followed Fourth of July wounds from toy pistols and paper caps, has resulted in more than 150 deaths in various parts of the country. Some 15 have died in Wisconsin.

Venor predicted that the hottest days of July would be the 18th and 19th, but his prediction doesn't count this time. He also predicted that there would be fearful storms on the 17th and 18th, and he is off again.

As it will not cost Mr. Allen more than two or three thousand dollars to stick to the Greenback ticket, he will probably stick. If he gets a vote for every dollar he expends in the canvass, he will do very well. But as an investment, one can hardly understand where the pay comes in.

Washington drew his last breath in the last hour of the last day of the last week of the last month of the last year of the last century, December 31st, 1876.

This item has again started on the grand rounds of the press—this time in the patent insides. Washington died December 13, 1799—Saturday Telegraph.

You may as well be correct and say he died on the 14th of December, as he expired between 11 and 12 o'clock on the night of that day.

A tornado struck the town of New Ulm, Minnesota, last Saturday evening, and made deathly havoc in its tracks. It blew down scores of houses, killed some 12 or 15 persons, rendered homeless more than a hundred families, and in the course of nine miles destroyed property to the value of $100,000 or $500,000.

It was one of those maddening tornadoes which comes with terrible fury and a mighty roar, and which works death and action in its path.

It is now in order for the Chicago Tribune to fall down upon its knees and worship Senator-elect Miller, of New York, whom it has always spattered with its venom. Inter Ocean.

The Inter Ocean, if it wants to be consistent, might follow the suggestion it offers the Tribune. No faction has been "spattered with venom" to a greater degree than the faction which Senator Miller belongs, and that by the Inter Ocean. If the administration men at Albany had been a set of political pirates and professional dead beats, they could not have received worse treatment than they have done at the hands of the Inter Ocean.

The mistake in taking Lapham and Miller from the House of Representatives and transferring them to the Senate, lies in the fact that it may change the political complexion of the House. Their successors will be elected in November but the returns will not be officially announced and the result declared until the middle of December. Congress will meet on the 5th of December, and in the meantime the House will have been organized. The loss of two members to the Republican side of the House will give the Greenbackers the balance of power if they choose to use it. But the men who managed the Lapham and Miller movement claim that Governor Cornell will call a special election so that their successors can qualify in time to participate in the organization of the House. But supposing their successors are chosen at a special election and two Republicans are elected, the Democrats and Greenbackers could force a delay in having them sworn in, and in the meantime the House could be organized by the opposition. It would have been better, in view of the extremely small Republican majority in the House of Representatives, and the doubt regarding the qualification of the successors of Lapham and Miller to qualify in time to take part in its organization, had two other men been nominated. New York has good senatorial timber outside of its congressional delegation, and it should be utilized.

There are more than even chances that evidence will be brought to light that Bookwater, the Democratic candidate for Governor, purchased his nomination. Before the convention met there was not one Democrat in a thousand in Ohio, who ever heard of Bookwater. But unknown as he was, he had some political ambition, and having lots of money could easily seduce a Democratic convention. He lives in Springfield and is building an opera house. John Hay says that in Ohio when a man has an eye on an office and has more cash than he knows what to do with, he advertises the fact that he is building an opera house, and often the scheme succeeds. The nomination of Bookwater smacks very strongly of bribery, but the convention did not seem to find much fault as the money used had a very soothing effect upon the delegates who at first were inclined to kick against his nomination. He not only had the advantage of having plenty of money and was building a fine opera house, but he got a big crowd there to shout the name of Bookwater and to cheer at the very mention of his name. He packed the galleries of the hall with hired shouters brought into Columbus by the train load. When any opposition to Bookwater was shown it was drowned with clamor by the crowd in the galleries. When a delegate rose to speak in favor of some one else for Governor, the yells and hisses compelled him to sit down and abandon his candidate. But when the name of Bookwater was mentioned, the galleries were on deck, and there came cheer after cheer which fairly made the building shake to its foundation. Bookwater's money and shouters were too much for the other candidates and the man who is building an opera house got the nomination. Of course nobody expects he will be elected.

STATISTICAL.

The Chances Against the President's Recovery.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Statistics collected from the best medical authorities go to prove that if the President recovers it will be one of the few exceptions of cases where vitality and courage have carried the injured parties back to health again. In the Crimean war, out of thirty-eight cases where the wounds penetrated the abdomen, together with lesion of the viscera, thirty-six died. Out of sixty-five cases where the wounds perforated the abdomen simply, sixty deaths occurred. Out of 127 cases where wounds of this special nature were incurred, there were 100 deaths. Where the balls enter liver, kidneys, or spleen, they usually lead to mortal results, though remarkable cases perhaps, like the present prominent one, are on record where restoration to health has been effected under most untoward circumstances. Monsieur Shintin, Chief Surgeon des Invalides, Paris, says that out of 4,000 patients examined by him in five years where the bullets remained in the body, only twelve were not inconveniently from the extra-ocular pains, and in over 200 of these cases the wounds continued to open and close until the foreign bodies were removed.

A TERRIBLE STORM.

New Ulm, Minnesota, Destroyed by a Cyclone—Terrible Loss of Life and Property.

MANITOWISH, Minn., July 16.—A terrible storm struck New Ulm yesterday afternoon soon after 4 o'clock. The following information regarding the scene from a Wisconsin correspondent is learned from Mr. J. A. Sanborn, of Manitowish, who returned on this morning's train from Sleepy Eye and passed through the destroyed town. Mr. Sanborn was at Sleepy Eye, about fifteen miles west of the ill-fated town. He says that not less than five separate and distinct cyclones crossed that part of the State that afternoon, and could be seen from Sleepy Eye. The one that struck New Ulm came sweeping down from west to east about 4:30 o'clock, and its progress through the air could be distinctly seen. It appeared in two separate columns, one moving upward from the earth, and the other descending from the clouds, apparently a mile or two in length, at an angle of about 45 degrees, and whirling around and round with great rapidity. It seemed to have spent its whole time at New Ulm and vicinity, which was true, as the following account will verify.

When Mr. Sanborn left New Ulm on this morning's train, the bodies of six persons who had been killed in the storm had been recovered, and it was estimated that about twenty others had been seriously, if not fatally, injured. The body of one young lady was found, from which the head was severed and missing. Between fifty and sixty persons are missing, and the scene of relatives and friends frantically searching in the debris for the lost beggars description. Hundreds of cattle are killed, both in the town and vicinity.

St. Paul, July 17.—The Pioneer Press to-night received the following from New Ulm: "The people of New Ulm are organizing for the work that is before them and will be prepared to commence the rebuilding of their city to-morrow. Workmen from St. Paul, St. Peter and Manitowish are on hand, and things are beginning to assume a more systematic. The Governor's Guards are on duty protecting property."

Large crowds visited the scene of the disaster, and a special train was run from Redwood Falls.

THE SICK CHAMBER.

Some Interesting Notes from President Garfield's Sick Room.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The President had enjoyed a night of refreshing sleep, and was feeling much stronger, and as hungry as a bear when he awoke this morning. The faithful Crump, who had watched at the President's bedside, and the physician who slept in the adjoining room, were already on hand to prepare the patient for his meal.

"What shall I have for breakfast, Crump?" asked the President.

"What would you like, sir?"

"Well, let me see. I would like some lamb chops; some nice toast, a baked potato with boiled milk dressing, and some breakfast bacon, and—"

"Oh, Mr. President, remember you are a sick man yet, sir," interrupted Crump.

"I am also a very hungry man, and, if I am sick, should be humored a little." The breakfast was prepared at once.

"And did he eat it?" was asked of Dr. Bliss.

"With great relish, sir," was the answer.

It was a much cooler day than usual in Washington, and the President was not annoyed by the heat. During the days the President complained of his back itching him a great deal, and requested an attendant to rub him. This was done, and the President was delighted with the operation.

"Who does not like being stroked the right way?" he asked, and, finally, when his physician seemed to consider that he had been rubbed enough, he exclaimed, "I suppose there must be an end to all things."

This afternoon a large portrait of the President's mother, done in crayon by a Cleveland artist, and handsomely framed, was taken into his room and placed at the foot of the President's bed.

The President, said Colonel Rockwell to-night, "is becoming more cheerful from time to time. He is now seeing his chances brighten and to think that his 'poor pinch of life' is worth saving, after all. He hears with delight the stories of the people's sympathy, and is anxious to manifest his appreciation. Speaking of the shooting, he said to me that he remembered very well the moment he was shot, and felt the pain. He was not conscious of his condition, however, until he noticed his clothing afterward. Only for a moment, however, did he lose his self-consciousness, for when Mrs. Secretary James wiped off his face he smiled again and thanked her."

A Smooth Complexion.

Can be had by every lady who will use Parker's Ginger Tonic. For promptly regulating the liver and kidneys and purifying the blood there is nothing like it, and this is the reason why it so quickly removes pimples and gives a rosy bloom to the cheek. See notice.

THE TRAIN-ROBBER.

The Funeral of the Murdered Conductor—The Grief of Family and Friends.

LEANSWORTH, Kas., July 17.—A special train was run from Atchison to Plattsmouth this morning, and another special came down from Cameron, both filled with the friends of the late William Westfall, the Rock Island conductor murdered by train-robbers in their attack on the train Friday night. There has never been a larger attended funeral in Plattsmouth, nor a more sorrowful one. The exercises over the remains were peculiarly affecting, and the universal grief that was plainly manifested by the tears of women, the half-suppressed emotions of men, with the sobbing of little children, showed plainly the hold the murdered man had obtained upon the affections of all. The funeral services took place at 9:30 this morning. Mrs. Westfall has not yet recovered from the terrible blow. An invalid for years, the shock completely prostrated her, while the three children are wild with grief. Westfall's life was insured for $2,000 in the Ancient Order of United Workmen and $2,000 in the Contractors' Brotherhood. Besides this, he had a comfortable home in Plattsmouth, and some ready money, said to be about $2,000. Nothing now can be said regarding the robbery.

SHOT AND KILLED.

Dunmore, Ia., July 17.—Mr. Hazleton, the attaché of Forepaugh's circus who was shot yesterday by William Clark, the constable, died to-day at 10 o'clock. Clark was taken to the hospital last night and identified by Hazleton as the man who shot him. Mr. Forepaugh has engaged the services of E. D. Lyon, a prominent attorney of this city to assist the district attorney in the prosecution of Clark. Public sympathy here is with Hazleton.

Woman's Wisdom.

She insists that it is of more importance that her family should be kept in full health than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it that each member of her family is supplied with enough Hop Bitters, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness, with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way.—Ed.

CHICAGO LETTER.

From our regular correspondent.
CHICAGO, July 16.—An amusing episode occurred on Washington street the other afternoon, in which the two great editors of our morning dailies figured conspicuously. Joseph Medill entered a restaurant in which Wilbur F. Storey was enjoying his lunch. After being seated Mr. Storey, in the act of fastening a pickle, glanced around and beheld his worthy opponent in the act of ordering dinner.

Mr. Medill cast on him a look of withering contempt, and Mr. Storey returned it, as much as to say—"Your another." Medill arose and left unceremoniously. Mr. Storey finished his meal in no enviable frame of mind. Mr. Medill entered another eating house, where he observed Wm. Penn Nixon enjoying lemon pie. Mr. Nixon arose at once and made his exit, with his mouth full, leaving Medill and the other guests in quiet amazement. "The wind blows, where it listeth, etc."

The South side street car company is busily engaged in laying a line of "endless chain railway," which will be in operation this fall. If successful, other companies will adopt it, and horses will be a thing of the past on our street cars.

A gentleman crossing Wells Street bridge yesterday morning, ran into a carriage containing a couple of ladies. A policeman interfered and told him to be more careful in future or he would get arrested. He told the officer to go to—, when he was immediately taken to the station and fined $25.

A gentleman in this city had a watch, which our correspondent now owns, which has varied twenty seconds from the true time in two years and seven months. It is not for sale.

Two more gluehouse factories will be built in Chicago the present season, with a combined capacity of 30,000 bushels of corn daily.

The immense emigration constantly passing through Chicago is almost beyond comprehension. Over 50,000 went through in the past two weeks, and the railroads are taxed to their utmost capacity daily.

A large factory for the manufacture of bicycles is being erected with a paid up capital of $300,000.

The new city court house now being erected is said to be in a very unsafe condition, and competent architects predict that it will fall down. Large cracks are observed in the stone work outside and correspondingly in the brick work inside. The enormous weight, in connection with the character of the foundation are the reasons.

There is no let up to our immense business, even this warm weather. It is rushing as usual.

A track of five acres adjoining our city limits was sold last week for $50,000 to St. Louis capitalists.

How to Secure Health.

It seems strange that any one will suffer from the many dangers brought on by an impure condition of the blood, when SCOTT'S EMERALD LIVER AND BLOOD PURIFIER, or BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP, will restore perfect health to the physical organization. It is indeed a strengthening syrup, pleasant to take, and has proven itself to be the BEST BLOOD PURIFIER ever discovered, effectually curing Scrofula, Syphilis, Erysipelas, Malaria, all Nervous disorders and Debility, Bilious complaints and all Diseases indicating an Impure Condition of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Skin, etc. It corrects Indigestion. A single bottle will prove to you its merits as a health restorer for it ACTS LIKE A CHARM, especially when the complaint is of an exhaustive nature, having a tendency to lessen the natural vigor of the brain and nervous system.

We believe that there is a large class of patent medicines whose ingredients are skillfully and judiciously selected and compounded, and that they have been very useful in the domestic treatment of disease. We must come to this conclusion in precisely the same way that we come to the conclusion that a man is a skilled physician—by what they accomplish, and by the testimony of those who have used them. The reputation of a patent medicine is sustained by exactly the same evidence that supports a skillful physician's reputation.

Many of these medicines are of the regular practice, and were prepared and originally prescribed by the best physicians. Very few of them are of the kind which are made up of the concoctions of the ignorant of their makers. The people, who are necessarily the judges, both of doctors and of medicines, say that these medicines are not all frauds, and if established, they are good for anything, that fact is established. St. Louis Globe-Gazette.
